Rescued and Thriving

Written By: Lexi Woodworth, Shelter Director

It's been 6 weeks since we were called to a home where four puppies and their parents were abandoned. When we got there the puppies were in horrific condition and so was their mother. We found out that they were days if not hours from death. These pups were so weak they weren't able to move or play. Their bodies were damaged from the lack of nutrition. We really weren't sure what the outcome was going to be for them.

Today all four puppies are a healthy weight, they have overcome several medical issues, and they love to run and play. Their immune systems haven't fully recovered from the trauma and there may be some long lasting effects down the road. But these puppies (Continues on page 2) ....

have each found incredible homes where they are loved, spoiled, and will not know neglect again.

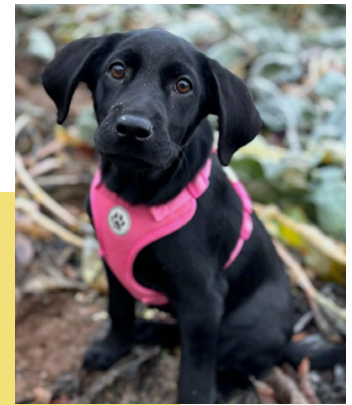

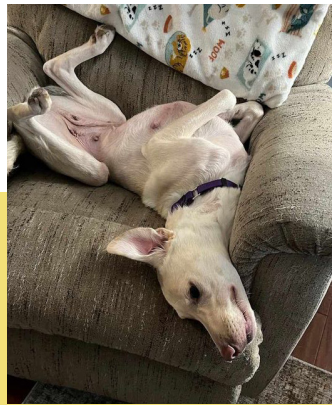

Jessie was the most critical of the pups at intake. She could barely move. It looked like everything hurt. Now Jessie runs around with her three kids, furry and feathered siblings, and gets into plenty of mischief. Dock found a forever home filled with love. His family thinks he is the sweetest boy and he deserves nothing less. Igor stole his family's heart immediately. They were confident this would be just a foster but Igor had other plans. Macy has the cutest underbite. She seemed to be one of the stronger pups, however, a medical scare a few weeks in showed us that Macy is just one tough girl! Macy is loved by her whole family, especially her dad.
